

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a PGA chip package that utilizes a plurality of flexible spring pins. More specifically, the spring pins, while attached between a printed circuit board and any region of the substrate, provide a bent central region that can 5 expand or contract during operational cycles to reduce flaking, cracking, and ultimately an electrical open.